Two Local Men Commit Suicide

END LIVES LAST NIGHT; DROODING

Z. O. BOWEN AND ARVID C. JOHNSON END LIVES.
BOTH SAID TO BE DESPONDENT
Money Matters and Domestic Troubles Given As Causes of Deeds.

Two Janesville residents, one depressed over finances and the other over family troubles, committed suicide in the past 12 hours. Z. O. Bowen, alias, B. Knight, hanged himself early this morning. Arvid C. Johnson, a former employee of the Leath Furniture company, shot himself through the head about 10 o'clock last evening. Both bodies were taken in charge by Coroner Lynn Whaley.

Z. O. Bowen, aged 53 years, was found hanging from a tree on his farm, Kureka Heights, west of the city about eight o'clock this morning by O. J. Sturtevant who took him to his home by Miss E. S. Russell, 153 Cherry street, where she was unable to get Bowen on the telephone.

Friends stated he was in the best of health and only yesterday was visiting them. He appeared to be happy and content.

Troubled Over Finances.
"Mr. Bowen appeared to be troubled a times over financial matters," Miss Russell said. He spoke to her of the "robbing of the local business man and how sorry he felt and how it worried him."

Mr. Bowen was well known to Janesville people. He has been a resident of this city for a number of years and gained considerable publicity through his study of astronomy.

County Coroner Lynn Whaley stated that it was a case of suicide as Mr. Bowen had placed a step ladder under the eaves and had secured the rope which it would be about six inches from the ground.

Shortly after 10 o'clock last evening he police were notified that a man had shot himself in the house at 215 North Franklin street. Coroner Whaley and Chief of Police William Gowen responded and found the body of Arvid C. Johnson. Johnson was shot through the head with a .32 calibre revolver. Death had been instantaneous. He was 29 years old.

Johnson was despondent.
It is reported that Mr. Johnson, a former resident of Rockford, was despondent over domestic affairs.

Johnson was an employee of the Leath Furniture company and left his position last Saturday evening. The following morning he was found by the local man. "Dear Sister, I am going to kill myself with a gun I bought this afternoon. I was in Rockford the other day but couldn't see—Have later busy."

Johnson's body was removed to the city undertaker and will be taken to Rockford this afternoon. Relatives of the dead man here are expected to arrive this afternoon.

County Coroner Whaley stated that it would not be necessary to hold inquests in either case.

RELIGION VIOLATED BY BOLSHEVIKI

London, May 13.—In the Caucasus as elsewhere in Russia, the bolsheviks are seeking to destroy religion by bringing it into contempt. According to a dispatch from Reuters correspondent they conducted in a church with all ceremonial a mock marriage between an aged priest and a mare. The priest was forced, under threats of death, to sing the Psalms and Canticles of the Liturgy.

Among the official publications of the Moscow soviet is a parody in verse of the church service, intended to be performed over the supposed corpse of a priest. These productions are being sent out in hundreds of thousands as bolshevik propaganda.

In another church in the north Caucasus a boy was through an ink bottle in such a way as to make a hole in the wall of the church. A hole in the wall was put in the hole. Below were scribbled some odious words.

A Moscow dispatch says that the bolshevik leaders, in order to shake the faith of the masses, have caused the exhumation of the bones of Saint Tikhon and Saint Mitrofan.

There is said to be a growing movement among the religious commons in Russia to bring about a protest of all churches of the world against the bolshevik violations of religion. The metropolitan of Odessa may go abroad soon on behalf of the project.

Railway Trainmen Meet in Columbus Tomorrow

Queen's Brother May Rule

The Duke of Devonshire, it is said, will soon retire as governor general of Canada, and the London Mail reports that the Duke of Athlone, brother of Queen Mary, will be offered the office. Athlone would have succeeded the Duke of Connaught in the position in 1914 had it not been for his duties with the British army. The Duchess of Athlone was Princess Alice, a daughter of the late first Duke of Albany. The Duke is forty-five years old and is a son of the Duke of Teck.

PEACE and WAR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris advises indicate brighter prospects for a solution of the Italian problem which is a pressing one now that the peace conference is on the eve of receiving the Austrian delegates.

The Austrian delegation is on the way, some members being due to reach Paris tonight with the chief plenipotentiaries arriving Wednesday.

Although it is not believed probable the Germans will refuse to sign the treaty, the entire peace would be satisfactory to the allies, the enemy being that it would be ultra radical in character.

The wave of opposition in Germany to the signing of the treaty on the terms presented shows no signs of subsidence. Both President Ebert and Chancellor Scheidemann have made statements denouncing the terms. Neither of them, however, want so far as to state that Germany will not sign them.

In Chancellor Scheidemann's statement the possibility of a new government taking office in Germany was discussed but the chancellor declared, it was doubtful whether the formation of a government "which would sign the peace terms would be satisfactory to the people."

Meanwhile the experts of the Council of Four are examining the two wheat diseases discovered in Madison county, Illinois, and which previously were unknown in this country, may cause heavy losses to individual farmers, the losses in the area affected will have no appreciable effects on the total production of this year's wheat crop, said a statement issued today by the department of agriculture.

The first of the two diseases, said the statement, apparently will be confined to "take all" or "white heads" known in many foreign countries. The second is flag smut of wheat. Federal experts are of the opinion the diseases were brought to this country in seed shipped from Australia.

SLACKERS ARRAIGNED BY BADGER LEGION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee, May 13.—Savage arraignment of the slackers during the war, a demand for the deportation of all aliens and the investigation of the favored treatment given to the war slackers who posed as conscientious objectors is contained in a declaration of principles adopted for Wisconsin by the Wisconsin legion of the American Legion of Returned Soldiers. The declaration of principles, which includes also a pointed attack against the bolshevik movement, and a demand for work for the unemployed soldiers, was adopted by the Wisconsin delegation, upon its return to Milwaukee. A movement to push the formation of the legion and the transfer of the present organizations of the American War Veterans, the Wisconsin organization formally to the new legion is already under way.

BELL CO. SURVEYS CITY TO DETERMINE 10 YEAR PHONE NEED

Engineers of the Wisconsin Telephone company arrived in Janesville today to study telephone conditions expected to arise within the coming 10 years.

Expecting a growth of more than 20,000 in population within the next few years the company has sent C. E. Kiffell and Mr. E. Bailey, efficiency experts, here to investigate developments and study the growth so that when the city expands ample accommodations in telephone lines will parallel the development of the city.

The engineers, after weeks of investigation, will make their reports to cover three periods in the ensuing ten years. The first will cover the first three, the second the first five and the third will cover the entire ten years.

Line extensions, central office equipment, under ground conduits and many other features will be contained in the survey report. The work will commence immediately.

Peace Steps By Nations

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, May 13.—The Italian problem seemed nearer solution when today's conference began among the allied representatives here, and it was thought probable that on basis of understanding would be reached during the day.

The Italian representatives are reported to be evidencing more of a willingness to make concessions. No further communications had been received from the German representatives and the experts to whom the last notes from Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau had been referred had not yet reported.

This afternoon President Wilson will receive Thomas Nelson Page, American ambassador to Italy, in connection with the Italian question.

The Italian representatives have resumed complete participation in the peace negotiations.

AUSTRIA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, May 13.—In the peace treaty with Austria, now well towards completion a responsibility clause has been inserted identical with that in the German treaty with the exception that the German treaty provided for the trial of former Emperor William is omitted. The remaining clause makes provision for the trial of military offenders by an international court martial.

The frontier delimitation of the new Austria presents the one serious issue, it being somewhat similar to that of the Surra valley in the German treaty. This is a question of the Tyrol, a section of which is detached from Austria and placed within the boundaries of Italy.

The reason for attaching this German speaking population to Italy is the establishment of a strategic frontier giving Italy adequate protection from invasion from the north.

The frontier line as drawn in the treaty is presented to the Austrians is the one laid down by the treaty of London.

HUNGARY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, May 13.—The Hungarian government has not yet accepted the invitation to name delegates for the signing of the peace treaty, but it is assumed here that the government will gladly take advantage of this means of establishing relations with the outside world. Allied representatives at Vienna were directed recently to proceed to Budapest for the presentation of the proposal.

It was expected at this time that the soviet regime was about to fall, but it later developed that it had secured a new lease of life.

World Loses Ideal

"The world has once again lost an illusion, which is so poor in ideas, again lost a belief. What name can be put on these four years which have been a series of bloody battlefields, in thousands of trenches, in orphan families and among the despairing and abandoned have been mentioned these four years with more devotion and belief than the name of Wilson? Today the picture of the peace-bringer as the world pictured him is paling beside the dark forms of our fathers to whom the name of peace was a curse. A Frenchman recently wrote: 'The wild beast has been put in a cage on bread and water but is allowed to keep his teeth, while his claws are hardly cut.' 'All over Berlin we see posters intended to arouse a practical love for our brothers in captivity. They show sad and hopeless faces behind the prison bars—that is the right frontispiece for the so-called peace treaty, a true portrait of Germany's future. 'Nation Would Cease to Live' 'Sixty million are behind the barbed wire and the prison bars. 60 millions at hand labor for whom the enemy makes their own land a prison camp. Should the peace conditions be accepted Germany no longer could call anything her own which lies outside these narrow bounds. Germany must cease to exist.' (CONTINUED ON PAGE FIVE)

CHANCELLOR DENOUNCES ALLIES' PACT

SCHIEDEMANN ADDRESSES
ASSEMBLY ON PEACE
"DICTATIONS."

CALLS SITUATION TURNING POINT

Not Pursuing Nationalistic
Dreams, No Thirst of Power,
He Declares.

[By Associated Press.]
Berlin, Monday, May 12.—Declaration by Chancellor Scheidemann in the national assembly today that the peace terms were "unacceptable" brought the members of the assembly, the spectators and those in the press gallery to their feet in a hurricane of cheers and applause.

The chancellor thundered out the word which announced the German government's rejection of the Versailles condition.

With the exception of the indecisive socialists, led by Hugo Haase, all factions in the assembly arose and cheered vociferously.

After the chancellor's speech the leaders of the various parties with the exception of the socialists, made speeches in which they declared they backed up the government.

[By Associated Press.]
Paris, May 13.—The heads of the two German-democratic parties and the members of the center have informed Chancellor Scheidemann that their parties will withdraw their representatives from the government in case the peace terms are not accepted. According to a dispatch from Berlin received here by way of Basle, it developed this afternoon that Count Brockdorff-Rantzau had intended to ask permission to send German delegates to receive the Austrian representatives, according to the Habsburg peace terms. The allies intended to keep the delegation wholly apart.

[By Associated Press.]
Berlin, Monday, May 13.—Chancellor Scheidemann, in his speech before the national assembly today said that the occasion was the turning point in the life of the German people, as the assembly was to decide the attitude toward the peace terms. He said the German people had to decide whether they would accept the peace terms or whether they would continue the fight.

"The representatives of the nation," he continued, "meet here as the last band of the faithful assemblies when the fatherland is in the greatest danger. All have appeared before the representatives of Alsace-Lorraine, who have been deprived of the right to be represented here just as you are to be deprived of the right to self-determination. I see among you the representatives of all the German races and lands. A peace treaty which would deprive the German people of the Rhine, of the Saar, of East Prussia, West Prussia, Posen, Silesia, Danzig, and Memel. Together with the deputies of the unrepresented provinces who, if the will of our enemies becomes law, are to meet for the last time as Germans amongst Germans."

"I am one in heart with you in the gravity and sanctity of this hour which should be ruled by only one idea—that we belong to one another and must stand by one another. We are one flesh and one blood and that whoever tries to sever us is driving a murderous knife into the living body of the German people."

"To keep our nation alive—that and nothing else—is our duty. We are pursuing no nationalistic dreams. No questions of prestige and no thirst for power. We have no other ambition. We have life is what we must have for our land and nation today while everyone feels a throbbing hand at his throat."

"I speak without tactical considerations. The thing which is at the basis of our discussion is this thick volume in which 100 sentences begin, 'Germany renounces this and that.' These four years with more devotion and belief than the name of Wilson? Today the picture of the peace-bringer as the world pictured him is paling beside the dark forms of our fathers to whom the name of peace was a curse. THE RIGHT SPIRIT.
The Chamber of Commerce and a church has publicly commended the city officials for the efforts being made to rid the city of men and women who have come here to prey upon the public, especially the soldiers who have come up from Camp Grant. It is a commendable effort and a commendable effort.

Although we can not excuse a man in uniform for taking liberties to which he is not entitled, we believe that many of the soldiers have been tempted by those who would prey upon them. These boys come from camp, generally after a long period of discipline. They have been under restraint. The tempter, in the form of a woman of the streets, or a fellow who is so bold as to obtain liquor for a man forbidden to drink and charge that he had fought for him a price that is beyond all reason, meets them on the street. A proposition is made and the soldier yields. Generally he pays the penalty. The tempter has been going free in many cases.

Now that the city officials have gotten on the job, these human cultures will not work. They will not boldly embrace men in uniform and ask them if they want to buy booze, and then charge them as high as $4 a pint. The city is going to be rid of them. We are going to be better for having washed our dirty linen, even if the general public had to look upon the soap suds before it would believe the conditions were as bad as painted.

The Chamber of Commerce and the church that adopted resolutions, praising those to whom the credit is due, must in turn be given commendation for their fearlessness in backing the right and standing stoutly for a clean city. If our other civic institutions will show the same spirit, we will not again be put into the position which we have occupied for several months.

FAITHFUL AND EFFICIENT.
"Faithful and efficient." These two words describe the qualifications of the women of Janesville and Rock County who have generously done their share in winning the war. These women pledged themselves to see every war activity through to the end. They did not make a lot of noise about the things they were going to do but when the call came, they dropped their household or other duties and pitched into the task before them. As a result Rock County holds a proud record in the nation's communities for doing her war work thoroughly and without hesitancy. While other communities allowed their work to drag along, we finished it in record time. Give the women great credit for this.

They have done their share in every liberty loan, Red Cross drive, war saving drives, two housing campaigns and many other activities which have taken their time and tested their energy. There was never any hesitancy on their part. They jumped into the job and stuck until the finish. Although patriotic, they deserve medals for their patriotic work. The public appreciates their wonderful work and will join with us in saying "God bless the women who so unselfishly aided in every possible way in the time of our greatest emergency."

A MERRY SESSION.
When congress meets in special session, called by President Wilson in a cable from Paris, next Monday, the beginning of a long and important campaign will have started.

The sixty-sixth congress perhaps will remain in session well into the presidential campaign next year. The progress will be marked by important legislation and with no small amount of politics. The republicans for the first time in eight years will come into control of congress. Leaders of that party already have plans under way for the investigation of various war functions of the democratic administration. Not only will the session be a long one but it promises to be a mighty merry.

The record to be made by the majority in congress will be the basis for endorsement of the voters one year from next autumn.

A number of domestic problems loom large before the new law-making body. Disposal of the railroads, telegraphs and telephones, questions of reconstruction, war revenue and woman suffrage are a few of the matters which will be taken up shortly after the legislative machinery is put in motion.

The big issue in the senate, of course, will be the peace treaty including the League of Nations covenant, which will be ready for consideration soon after the session convenes.

With all these vital matters to be disposed of while the nation waits, there is a great possibility that politics will be played to the limit. The public, however, is more concerned in the big problems before it and will not look with favor upon a political game too strongly played. The public has been patient with the present administration. It has done its share in bringing victory, but now it wants those things which should make for future prosperity and safety, accomplished without loss of time.

LET'S GET READY.
Our Red Arrow boys, members of the 32nd division, are due at Camp Grant this week and then it will be out a short time before they come home. Let us prepare right now to give those heroes one of the grandest welcomes they ever had. They deserve it and they expect it. We have told them this and time again how much we thought of them and how proud we have been of their glorious record on the fighting fronts of France. Now let us all pitch in and show them that we were in earnest.

Time up on the bells, whistles and bands. Throw out Old Glory to the breeze. Fill the larder to overflowing and when Bill and Sam and Pete and Jake set foot in Janesville take off the lid and show them the time of their lives.

It is evident that the desire of the American public for the withdrawal of our troops from Russia has finally been recognized by Secretary of War Baker as coming from those who have a great deal of interest in the matter. He has heard the insistent demands that American soldiers be taken out of a fighting zone in which they have no business. It is not probable that his chief, President Wilson, also sees the need for heading the wishes of the public. Orders have been given for the removal of troops from that territory in June.

Julius Barnes, United States wheat director, has declared that now European nations have stopped devoting their energies to the destruction of men, they will turn to production of food. Prices in this country will be lower, he predicts. He asserts flour should not be higher, inasmuch as the supply has been protected and reserves milled and dealers will recover their business sanity. This, if true, is cheering news for the consumer.

An army surgeon has discovered that it is the ear and not the stomach which causes seasickness. He claims that by stuffing the ears with sterilized gauze the most violent attacks may be relieved. If he had made known his theory sooner, many a doughboy would have stuffed his ears instead of his stomach before he took a transport for the ocean voyage.

Although 44 senators have pledged themselves to vote for woman suffrage, the National Woman's party is not going to take any chances and has announced it will continue its campaign until the amendment is safely adopted.

After 10 days of operation, treasury officials have found that the administration of the luxury tax is so complicated and costly that a movement is on foot to have it repealed soon after the special session of congress convenes.

A New York rabbi declares that many Broadway plays are written by hosiery buyers, adding from some of the late productions, the hosiery men got a good run of advertising.

ROY E. MOULTON

THE BIG HOP.
An aeroplane fellow he wanted to sail Across the wide blue, salty sea; The papers all said he would start without fail. Of course it is not 'nuthin' to me. But every durned day he would point his nose east. And on the old briny his eyes he would feast. He'd hear his farwell while some folks would scoff. He'd claim that he surely was going to jump off.

But he didn't. Said that he might jump Next mornin' at ten— Said he was goin' To try it again— But then!

Each day he pulled his old machine to the shore. And folks got all set for a treat. And always they let out the same cheerful roar. When he climbed up into the seat. Today they thought sure he was going to fly. But the ocean was dusty so he didn't try. There's something the matter with things every day. The mud on the slush seems to stand in the way.

So he didn't. He'll sure jump tomorrow Evening at ten— Says it's a cinch He'll try it again— But, then!

When a certain editor offered to make Mr. Burleson the most popular man in the cabinet, the offer didn't seem to please Mr. Burleson at all.

A Chicago critic says Mr. Walter Harnpden is a "rattling good Hamlet." Sort of a skeleton compliment, as it were.

We noted the fact that Freddie Hohenzollern had offered to sell his fur coat for $40,000 and we offered ours for $29.70. One gentleman (we hope we make no mistake) has offered us the 70. Are there any other bids? Hurry up and get it before the moths do. —Going—going—

One of the unluckiest things to be just now is a member of the Russian royal family. They are not even allowed to stay dead. Every day or so somebody sees a mysterious man with whiskers somewhere in this country and claims he is the ex-tsar.

The recent cold snap is said to have frozen all the parsnips from Maine to California. Nothing is in vogue in this world.

NAME YOUR OWN TICKET.
Dear Roy: You refer to the "married-life." What do you mean? A person who writes "Married Life" stories or a person who is sentenced to marriage for life? R. D.

We have no fear of Bolshevism in this country. There are too many public baths and nearly everybody has a little bathtub in his home.

Just Something to Throw At

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SECOND EDITION.

Seems like I'm livin' over all the childhood that I know. An' don't all the reckless things that once I used to do. For that little chap beside me with the tumbled shock of hair That is mother's greatest care Is the image of his daddy, in his every act I see.

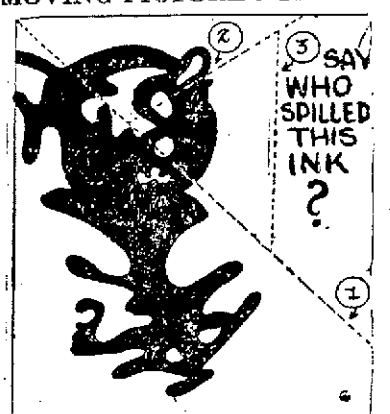

The living, moving picture of the boy I used to be. People say that he's just like me an' I guess it must be true. For he's simply doin' over all the things I used to do. You'll find him gayly swingin' from the top branch of a tree Or tight-rope walkin' fence tops with his two arms wavin' free. An' he's never really happy till he's wallowed in the dirt. An' he keeps his mother busy sewin' buttons on his shirt.

The women folks all wonder where he gets his headless ways. But I know that they are rooted in my by-gone yesterdays. An' I see in every action what his mother cannot know. That's he's simply livin' over all my life of long ago. An' they say that I should stop him when he risks his precious pate. An' change his willful nature, but it's forty years too late.

WHO'S WHO in the Day's News

GEN. NICHOLAS LOHVITSKY
gins d'Italia, which arrived in the U. S. recently, bringing casual troops from Marcellus, was Lieut. Gen. Nicholas Lohvitsky, commander in chief of the Russian army in France, who is on his way to Vladivostok. Since 1916 Gen. Lohvitsky has been made his headquarters in Paris, but prior to that he commanded a Russian corps consisting of 21 regiments of infantry and nine of cavalry on the eastern Russian front. The general is traveling in civilian clothes, and the nature of his mission is not explained. He bears, however, papers signed by Marshal Foch, and across one of them is written in English, "Absolutely opposed to Bolshevism."

Voice of the People

Mr. Editor: Why not conduct the clean-up campaign of Janesville as in other cities of the state and elsewhere? Each ward of the city has certain day or days appointed for its clean-up. On that day or days the city teams haul away all rubbish free of charge, said rubbish to be placed in barrels or boxes placed on the curb in front of each home. The results from this method are usually most gratifying.

Why not make a thorough survey of all streets and public alleys? A few of the public streets and alleys are plowed for garden use. Some of the abutting property owners have completely blocked the alleys with hen coops, manure piles and straw stacks. Some of the streets are general dumping grounds for brush piles, stumps and goodly sized logs.

Why not have street and public alley signs put up this spring. Many of the old ones are clinging to their posts in a most dilapidated condition. Why not have guide posts on the highways out of the city, giving direction and distance to neighboring towns and villages?

Is there a building code for the city? By the appearance of a few of the numerous buildings, additions and construction some regulation along this line is much needed.

Why not enforce the ordinance relating to pasturing cows on the highways? A few of the outlying streets and alleys present a decidedly rural appearance. Some of the residents have from one to four head of cattle grazing on the highways from the first day of spring until snow flies in the fall. It is anything but pleasant to the neighbors to listen to the lowing of the herds.

Why not enforce and maintain sewer zones in all parts of the city? Sections of the city present a country town appearance, with the many out-buildings. If there are sewer zones why not banish these dis-informed nuisances, which are a menace to the health of the whole community?

Why not have committees appointed from the City Federation of Women's clubs and the Boy Scouts to make this clean-up campaign a successful one? In fact, let us all lend a hand in making Janesville a more healthful and beautiful city.

SURPLUS ARMY FOOD TO BE DISPOSED OF

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, May 13.—A method of disposing of about 100,000,000 cans of beef and more than 50,000,000 pounds of bacon included in the surplus food stocks of the army, has been agreed upon between the war department and representatives of the packing industry. The department announced today that it had accepted the recommendation of the packers that the goods be disposed of for export to relieve the food situation in Europe, but that should this be imposed, the director of sales would control the sale in this country, fixing the prices and method of distribution with the packing industry acting as agent.

GLASS OR REDFIELD MAY RESIGN OFFICE

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS)
Washington, May 13.—The resignation of either Secretary of Commerce Redfield or Secretary of the Treasury Glass, as a result of the split over the situation that led to the resignation of the industrial board was believed to be a possibility in official circles here today.

Ever since Secretary Glass aided actively with Redfield's director Hines when the railroad administration refused to accept the schedule of steel prices formulated by the board, the relations between him and Secretary Redfield were known to have been a trifle strained.

How Mrs. Humphrey Ward Views Americans' Fighting at St. Mihiel

(BY MRS. HUMPHREY WARD.)
(St. Mihiel was not a costly victory for the American army. Von Gallwitz, the German commander, had already determined on retirement when the American attack forestalled him. The American troops—amounting to approximately 60,000 men—and certain French units supporting them, achieved an important result with small losses. But—and be it remembered I am writing as an English woman attempting to focus both American accounts and British views of the American success—the operation, as the first battle of an independent American army, was a new revelation of the extraordinary interest and importance, even though the palm of difficulty and of sacrifice must be given rather to the splendid fighting on the Marne in June and July, or to the performance of the two brilliant divisions, the Twenty-seventh and the thirtieth, serving under Sir Henry Rawlinson, a fortnight after the capture of the Hindenburg line. "The original attack," says one of the best-informed of British military observers, "was carried out with extraordinary dash by very eager and physically magnificent troops. What an army the American army would have been if the war had lasted through this year! The qualities of the individual soldier, dash, energy, and the mastery of the modern war, together with the vast resources in man and wealth of the nation behind them, and the mastery of the modern war, already promised by the American command during the six months' campaign of 1918—

above all, the comparative freshness of the American effort—would have been then no doubt the leading force among the allies had the war been prolonged.
The great effects, the far-reaching effects of America's intervention in the war, and the sacrifice with the free nations of old Europe, are only now beginning to show themselves. They will be as at least the men and women of faith among us believe, beneficially at work when this generation has long passed away.
It was late when we left Verdun on the afternoon of the day which saw at its beginning on the southern edge of the St. Mihiel battlefield, and the winter daylight had passed into darkness before we began to run through the forest of the Argonne on our way to St. Mihiel and Châlons, passing by the wholly ruined village of Clermont in Argonne. The forest ran past us, a wintry landscape, dimly lit by our torches, and the night was so dark, so impenetrable beyond their range, an optical effect, however that may be produced in darkness by a mere fringe of trees along the roadside. But I knew while I watched the exquisite effects of brown and silver produced by succession of tall, pale trunks rising above the lace-work of the underwood, as seen after scene, pressed upon us out of the dark, that we were indeed in a forest country, only some twenty miles away from the scene of General Pershing's drive at the end of last September, when he achieved on the first day an advance of seven miles through difficult country, while General Gouraud was pushing for word in Champagne. I found myself speculating in the dark on the many discussions I had heard both among English and Americans of that advance, and of the check which held up the first brilliant operations.

But as one of the ablest of military critics, himself a soldier of great distinction, expressed it to me: "Each day had set the Americans an uncommonly hard task, one of the toughest in the war"—and in spite of difficulties General Pershing never ceased to push on. By Oct. 3 he had reached Grand-pré, the decisive leading out of the Argonne, leaving the confused and broken country of the front district behind him, and before the armistice arrived, as we all know, the American army, after fighting for forty-seven days and taking 15,000 prisoners, was at Sedan, on that tragic field which saw the breaking down of France forty-eight years ago.
Col. Frederick Palmer's book gives an account of these operations, which, it seems to me, ought to be universally read in the allied countries. The crushing enthusiasm, the courage, of whole-hearted youth, the contempt of death and suffering, the splendid and tireless energy which his pages describe, if they touch other English hearts as deeply as they have touched mine, will go a long way toward that spiritual bond between our nations which alone can make real and lasting things out of leagues and empires. As to their place in the general story of the war last summer, I will try and convey the English impression in another letter.

SOCIALISTS DENOUNCE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, Monday, May 12.—The League of nations covenant was described as a league of governments and executives, rather than peoples and parliaments, in a statement issued by international socialists tonight, criticizing the peace terms and the covenant. It is declared that the covenant seems to be the instrument of a restoration of the old order of the world, rather than an organization of international justice on which all nations ought to find a place.
The statement is signed by the following socialists:
Hjalmar Branting, Sweden; Camille Huysmans, Belgium; Arthur Henderson, J. Ramsay MacDonald and G. H. Stuart, England; Georges Bonnet, France; and Jean Longuet of France.
Failure to include Germany and Russia in the league of nations, the statement asserts, is a mistake. It is specifically if the league is to be made effective for preventing war.

SOCIETY AGITATED BY FASHION DECREE

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
London, May 13.—All London society is agitated by the last fashion which decrees that women's backs shall be bare. It is not merely a little "V" shaped exhibition of midday's back, but a wide exposure all the way down on both sides of the spinal column. Says the venerable Churchill: "I do not think that any lady will adopt this fashion. I go to dances often with my daughters, but I have never seen one of these fashionable women who would expose her back good enough to be exposed in public. If it were perfect one would look at them as one regards a statue." Lady Askew says: "I dislike the fashion."

Witness Tells of Fond du Lac Shooting

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Fond du Lac, May 13.—In the trial of the shooting of E. Ives, charged with murdering Herbert P. Loehr, March 25, T. W. Meikeljohn today told of Ives coming to the Palmer house on the night of the tragedy, that he appeared perfectly normal. Shortly afterward, the witness said, he saw Loehr leave, followed by Ives. Following the shooting Ives is alleged to have said: "I have killed him dead." At the police station Ives was quoted as having said that he "wasn't raised on a Texas ranch for nothing." On cross-examination Meikeljohn testified that Ives told him that Loehr had been unduly intimate with his (Ives) wife and was justified in his act.

Victory Loan Poster Wins Artist Bride

Newark, N. J., May 13.—"For home and country" the Victory loan poster painted by Alfred Everett Orr, won him a bride. It was learned today. The bride was Ruth Wyckoff, beautiful Los Angeles girl, who posed as the wife of Orr.

Miss Wyckoff was visiting in the east shortly before the last loan campaign began. She conceived the "for home and country" idea and suggested it to Orr, who promptly picked her as his model.
Friendship ripened into love, while he was painting and they were married last Saturday. They will live in Los Angeles.

PREDICTS JUGO-SLAV "RED" REVOLUTION

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
Milan, May 13.—Predictions of a revolution accompanied by bolshevism in Jugoslavia are being made by Croatian leaders, said a dispatch from Laibach today. This anti-Serbian propaganda by the Croats and Slovenes followed the unsuccessful attacks by the Serbian troops in Carinthia (German Austria).
The Croats disavow responsibility for the trouble, pointing out that forty prisoners and the arms and ammunition were taken out of the Jugoslavian army. They belonged to the regular Serbian army.

PROGRESSIVES STIR UP NEW STRENGTH

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
Chicago, May 13.—A movement is under way to muster the full strength of the progressive party and put up a fight for control of the Republican national convention next year.
Former progressive leaders from a dozen states met here yesterday under the leadership of Gov. Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, and Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and outlined a general program for the delegate fight in the primaries and state conventions, returned to their various states to "stir up things" for a second meeting scheduled for the latter part of this month.

Facing the fire of his own troops he shot and killed one of the enemy and captured a whole bag full of Boches. Of course, he got the Distinguished Service Cross. (Copyright, 1919).

CHANCELLOR SAYS GERMAN GOAL IS LIFE, NOT POWER

has ceased to exist abroad but if that were not sufficient, her cables have been taken from her and her wireless stations can only send out commercial telegrams and then only under control of the allies. This could separate us from the outer world, for what business can be done under the control of competitors need not be described.
But this is far from enough. The council therefore determines treaties between enemy countries to be null and void except such treaties whose execution is in favor of a government of the allied powers.
"What does President Wilson say?" said the first principle of peace itself, equality, equal participation in common benefits."
Here Scheidemann then argued that this principle had been abrogated in the peace terms.
Socialists Say Sign.
"Even if important changes are not made by the negotiations begun at Versailles, there remains no chance of peace except such treaties whose execution is in favor of a government of the allied powers."
"Peace, as hard and as oppressive as it may be, is a necessary assumption for the possibility of rebuilding our social and economic life in the spirit of the revolutionary proletarian."

Government May Change

London, Monday, May 12.—The possibility of a change in the government of Germany is a real possibility, presentation of the allied peace terms was introduced by Philipp Scheidemann, at Berlin, today. The statement in part follows:
"We think that we social democrats were strong enough to prevent a peace by violence but doubted whether the masses in enemy countries could support us because they are less strongly organized than we."
"It is possible a government might be formed which would sign the peace terms, but it is doubtful whether the allies would be satisfied with such a government."

What Would You Do?

Suppose your wages or income was just a little less than it really is—what would you do about it?

You would get along pretty well wouldn't you? Perhaps a little better management would make your money go just as far.

Suppose you take out a few cents a day—a dollar or two a week—and put that away in the bank for a later date, then make the balance of your income take care of you now—you would soon find your wealth growing nicely and you would hardly miss the savings.

LAKOTAS IN BIG HIT AT APOLLO

Memories of the old time Lakota club shows were revived last evening at the two performances at the Apollo theatre. The benefit of the club, a group of young men, members of the club who have taken part in many of the old Lakota minstrel shows, did their bit last evening and all of them were given a rousing welcome.

Manager Zanias secured "The Heart of Wotona" a powerful live-action motion picture drama for the show and the picture, with Miss Norma Talmadge starring, was in some measures appropriate as the name Lakota was taken from the Indians.

Edmund Leary, the golden voice tenor, made his initial appearance in Janesville since his discharge from the army. Mr. Leary brought down the house with his song, "Dear old Pal of Mine" and was forced to respond to two encores. Eddie got over big and the audience was still seeking another encore when he finished.

For the first time in nearly two years the Lakota club quartette, composed of Edward Leary, Dr. Richards, Earl Puzell and Bob Daily, appeared before the public. They opened this show last evening and for a few minutes threatened to break up the performers. The audience simply would not let them quit. Their song, "Sure Some Pretty Baby," was one of the big hits of the evening.

Mr. F. Richards sang several pleasing vocal selections which were greatly appreciated by the audience. His song, "Lonesome, That's All," was one of the feature numbers of the performance.

Ray Ryan, the Frank Tinney of Janesville, in his soft shoe dancing, was wonderful. He demonstrated all of the latest steps and his interpretation of the Square Dance was well received.

Bob Bailey, fresh from Beloit, and assisted by Pete at the piano, held the stage for half an hour. Bob sang several of the most popular songs, and his selection, "Good Bye, Wild Women, Good Bye," was a scream.

Music for the evening was furnished by the ever popular Lakota club jazz orchestra, under the leadership of Howard (Bithero). The orchestra, with their snappy tunes, fitted in well with the balance of the show.

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO GOD

BY MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
Author of "K." "The Man in Lower Ten," etc.

Ward shrugged his shoulders ruefully. "It means, I dare say, that the poor of the parish will get less than ever this year. Mrs. Bryant, for instance, who has always been generous, lost a pearl necklace and a wonderful pearl-shaped pink pearl."

"Is she a wealthy woman?"
"Very, I believe."
"Then is it such a terrible thing for her to lose the pearl? Perhaps these bandits, as you call them, think they could use these things better than the people who owned them."

Ward smiled. "I dare say we all think we could use the other fellow's possessions better than he does."
Elinor persisted, frowning a little. "Things are so terribly mixed up," she said, "if you could know the things that I know—Ward looked faintly amused—the people who are fighting for a principle, and have nothing to fight with, fighting for life sometimes! A good half of the world, you know, just struggles along, and the other half is so smug, so satisfied; it's—It's horrible."

Mr. Ward stared at her.
"How in the world do you come by such thoughts?" he demanded.
"I've never known anything else; I was brought up on the injustice of things. You have your poor here in the parish, but you see I was brought up with the poor of all the world. I am afraid I'm always for the under dog."

Rather startled was Rev. Mr. Ward that summer afternoon on the terrace at the Hall, startled and puzzled.
"Down in our hearts," he said, "perhaps we are all of us for the under dog. But how does that excuse my hands?"
"This Mrs. Bryant—how much do you suppose you are going to lose for your poor by her loss?"
"Not so much, but enough. She had promised a lot of things. She called up this morning to say that it was all off. He started to say that all was over, but decided that it was unbecomingly changed it. 'But I didn't come here to worry you about myself or the parish. I think you should not be here alone.'"

Elinor looked down over the village.
"Then perhaps, after all, it would be better if I married at once."

CHAPTER VI.
So great had the urgency of Elinor's position become that the band met at the hall on Thursday of the week after the country-club affair. Lethbridge was to get his instructions; Talbot wished to discuss his prospect. After dinner, the night being warm, they had their coffee on the terrace. A summer storm had come up. All at once a flash threatened Saint Jude's.

PHYSICALLY FIT AT ANY AGE

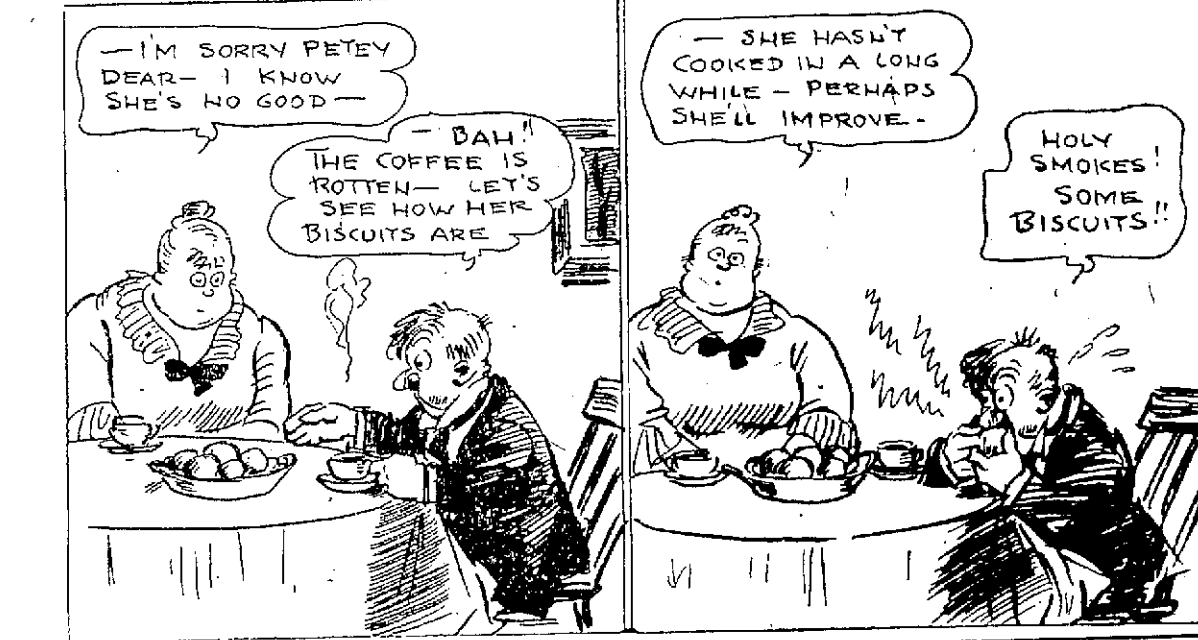

It isn't age, it's careless living that puts men "down and out." Keep your internal organs in good condition and you will always be physically fit. The kidneys are the most important organs in the human body. When they break down under the strain and the deadly uric acid accumulates and crystallizes, look for those sharp, excruciating, and scorching pains in the back and joints, the delicate urinary channels causing excruciating pain and set up irritations which may cause premature degeneration and often do turn into deadly Bright's Disease.

Do not wait until the danger is upon you. At the first indication of trouble go after the cause at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL HAZEL OIL CAPSULES, imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They will give almost immediate relief. If for any cause they should not, your money will be refunded. But be sure to get GOLD MEDAL. None other is genuine. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

PETEY DINK—MAYBE SHE THOUGHT SHE WAS STILL MAKING SHELLS.

"Ah! You are to be married?"
"Now that my father is gone," said Elinor wistfully, "it seems the best thing. And—I should like children. I have no friends, except perhaps you."

Ward strove to keep his voice steady, and matter-of-fact.
"Marriage is so serious—so vital a thing. He was trying to be calm and judicial. But his voice sounded far off; his heart pounded in his ears. 'To marry because one is alone, or needs friends—is a flimsy foundation to build on.'"

Once again Elinor surprised him.
"There have been few really great passions in the world," she said. "I could almost count them on my fingers. The rest of us seem to get along without."

"Perhaps there are more than we hear about. Every now and then, in my work, I come across something so much greater than I had expected, self-sacrifice, love, charity, as to justify my faith in mankind."

"Your faith," Elinor said softly.
"That is what I envy you—your faith. Not only your faith in your kind, but—the other sort."

Faith, hope and charity—and the greatest of these is faith. Ains for old Hilary, who had not kept his! "I had a goodness once who had that sort of faith; it was a great comfort to her. But I sit here on my hill-side, and it seems to me that spread out at my feet is all the injustice and cruelty and hatred in the world. And your God allows it all. My father tried to believe—cried hard, but he said that when he asked for bread they gave him a stone."

"Do you know who said that?"
"My father," said Elinor.
Rather surprised, he let it go at that.

CHAPTER VI.
So great had the urgency of Elinor's position become that the band met at the hall on Thursday of the week after the country-club affair. Lethbridge was to get his instructions; Talbot wished to discuss his prospect. After dinner, the night being warm, they had their coffee on the terrace. A summer storm had come up. All at once a flash threatened Saint Jude's.

Huff leaped to his feet.
"I've got it!" he said. "What is it they call the big building back of the church?"

None of the men knew. It was, as a matter of fact, the parish house, Lethbridge, however, knew its function.
"Fine prospect that!" he drawled.
"That's where the Sunday school is held, and where they keep the plated knives and forks for the church suppers."

"It's a damned fine building," said Huff. "What would they do if it burned down?"

They were too unfamiliar with church affairs to hazard a guess. Elinor, who had been sitting silent, suddenly voiced an objection to Huff's unspoken plan.

"There must be some other way," she said. "The children—they have sewing classes and entertainments for the children there. It's the parish house."

"If lightning struck the parish house tonight—" Huff said quite eagerly. "This is Thursday. By Sunday morning they would be taking up a whacking big collection to rebuild it."

The idea had taken hold of his imagination. Even the suggestion that a large part of the offertory might be in checks mattered not. But Elinor was obdurate.

"You can't do it some place else," she said. "Not here. They struggled very hard to build the church and they need money now. Mr. Ward told me—"

Huff turned on her jealously.
"Ward—that's the preacher chap?"
"He is the assistant rector," Elinor replied with dignity.

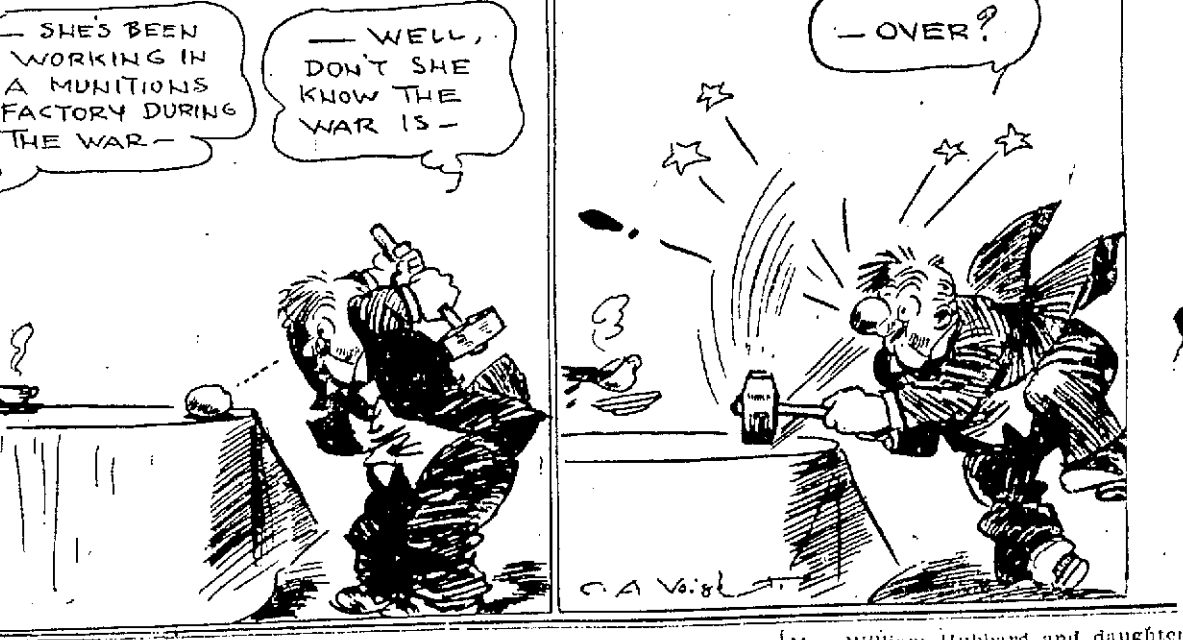

"He's been coming here, then?"
"Twice. Once when father died, and once to warn me against all of you." Not that she had forgotten that few minutes in the garden, under the moon; but that had been an accident—hardly a call.

Talbot chuckled. But Huff was thinking hard. Elinor had been different lately, a little softer. Ward represented all that the men Elinor knew were now—law to their violence, order to their disorder. There was almost a snarl in his voice.

"He'd better stay down in his valley with his old women," he said, "and leave you alone. You don't need him."

"I'm not so sure of that," Elinor replied quietly, and left him staring. . . . Huff burned the parish house the next night. He did it himself, without the assistance of the band. Into it he put not only the devilish ingenuity of long experience, but his new hatred of Ward.

Church property is always easy of access. It was the work of five minutes to crawl through a basement window and of half an hour to make his

Corns Peel Off Painlessly

There's Only One Genuine Corn-Peeler—That's "Gets-It."

There's only one happy way to get rid of any corn or callus, and that's the painless-peel-off way. "Gets-It" is the only corn remedy in the world that does it that way—effectively, thoroughly. Why get down on the floor, tie yourself up in a knot, and have to dig out your corn with a knife, when you can peel off your corn or callus in one simple, painless, and sure way?

Just then one of the crew came up and told Captain Bold that the pump had broken some of the machinery in the submarine and it would take them hours to fix it.

"Then we might as well spend our time looking about the island," said the Captain, and they started off.

As for Jack and Captain Brave, we will have to wait until tomorrow.

WEAK, RUN DOWN WOMAN

Tell How Vinol Made Her Strong
So, Kaikaua, Wis.—"I was weak, all run down, tired all the time, and had asthma, so I could hardly keep around and do my housework. After everything else had failed to help me, Vinol built me up and made me well and strong."—Mrs. Jay Parker.

The reason Vinol was so successful in Mrs. Parker's case, is because it contains the necessary elements to create an appetite, and digestion, make pure blood and create strength. It is the best and most effective of all Vinol and glycerophosphates in Vinol—that does it—you will not be disappointed if you try it. Smith Drug Co. Vinol is sold in Broadway by W. J. Smith and druggists everywhere.

P. S.—Stop scratching. Our Saxol Salve stops itching. We guarantee it.

BUILDING AND CONTRACTING

WHY THE DRICO

SILO IS BEST

1st—Can be built absolutely airtight and can be locked securely at any time when filled.

2nd—There is no cement, stone, brick or iron which can come in contact with the ensilage in any way—nothing but wood, which is a non-conductor of heat and cold, and the acid in the ensilage acts as a preservative to the wood.

There are thirteen other reasons why the Drico is the best silo. Let us tell you what they are.
